

HONORING

Jack L. Hendler, Chief Executive Officer, Avalon Net Worth, an Investment Banking Group. Jack was born in Brooklyn, NY. Both of his parents were Holocaust Survivors, making Jack a first-generation American. Jack first attended a very strict parochial school; ultimately he transferred to Brooklyn Technical high school, where he became active in student government while playing football.

Jack did his undergraduate and graduate studies at N.Y.U. To pay for school, he worked as a waiter in the famous "Borscht Belt" Catskill mountain hotels.

His first business venture was the creation and building of a retail chain in New Jersey called Cogito, which he ultimately sold to a public company. His second venture was as a principal in an intimate apparel manufacturing company with factories in Puerto Rico—where he spent 15 days each month. The third leg of his stool was the founding of Net Worth Solutions, Inc. as a mergers and acquisitions firm for consumer products companies, both retail and wholesale.

Net Worth Solutions eventually merged with Avalon Securities to form Avalon Net Worth, which engages in all aspects of investment banking

Jack is the proud father of Jared, twins Marshall & Everett, and Shayna. All his children have college degrees and more, and today are working in finance, film and fashion.

Jack has been involved for last quarter century in helping raise funds for pediatrics hospitals and rehabilitation centers.
